FROM THE CHIEF COORDINATOR'S DESK...

Dear Students,

School forms an integral part of a child's developmental years. Considering the fact that they spend half of the day at home and the other half in school, it would be fair to say that the environment at both the places equally helps in shaping up a child's personality. Both these worlds need to find a common ground in the promotion of certain important values. In a world that is increasingly becoming competitive, it is extremely important to learn to be grounded and self-poised. Basic skills such as time management, anger management go a long way in ensuring success. It is equally important to develop empathy and gratitude, sharpen decision making and problem solving skills, learn to avoid conflict and develop healthy interpersonal relationships. HONESTY lies at the heart of success – it is equally imperative to imbibe moral values as they go a long way in shaping our personality, making you a loved, respectable member of society. Today's students will be the leaders of tomorrow. For the same reason, students should learn to adjust, compromise and share – this is the way to forge long lasting friendships that can stand firm under strain. Students must also remember to be fair and just and non-discriminatory towards people who are different from them in any way. A good human being is recognized by his/her strength of character which can only be developed if values are learnt and practised all through life.

IMPRESSIONS

My School, My Pride

The best of all schools is my school,

Thy name is Bal Bharati, and it is so cool.

The building is classic, as if made by magic.

At the centre there is a ground with a green patch,

So soothing that our eyes instantly catch.

The teachers shower their love and care,

Of which all of us get an equal share.

A home of love and a temple of learning,

To enroll here every body is yearning.

Morning hour witnesses students flocking in like little penguins,

Eager to learn and become intelligent like dolphins.

They chirp around in groups heading towards their classes,

Some without but some wearing glasses.

The focus of our school is also on sports, arts, music and many skills and not just on knowledge,

Which later on we might not get a chance when we would be in college.

A place, where we are taught how to seek for our right,

Struggle and conquer in life's great fight.

My School

With happiness all around and children screaming, I get out of the bus, all tidy and beaming.

I enter the institution I always cherish, our motto focus, learn and understand or perish.

School is essential to every child's growth. It also happens to have fun and learning both.

The yummy smells from canteen fill out with the food, the Deliciousness is enough to put anyone in a good mood.

Winter carnival is a wonderful affair, the games, the food and the stalls are all a part of the fanfare.

Well, my school is not just about all studies and play, we also form associations that go all the way.

Creativity in students is very common here, my teachers encourage them with a lot of care.

My school is not just a physical space, We hold it in our hearts with a lot of grace.

So, here's to my school a place I hold dear, a place that will always be with me near and dear.
